COVID-19: OUR RESPONSE TO THE PANDEMIC

CFA is committed to ensuring the university protects the health of our professors, lecturers, counselors, librarians, coaches, staff, and students during this COVID-19 pandemic, while protecting our hard won contractual rights. CFA leadership is in regular communication with CSU management and are meeting daily to advocate and support your work as you move to alternative modalities of teaching and interactions with students. We encourage you to let us know what is necessary for changes in your working conditions. As for CSU management, we want to assert the following collective bargaining rights:

1. Right to work remotely

2. Right to not face professional setbacks in evaluations and future assignments

3. Right to safe and clean campus

4. Right to intellectual property

5. Right to resume normal practices when this is over
