

United Academics, The Faculty Union at The University of Vermont supports our colleagues at CSU Dominguez Hills and East Bay who are on strike

The California Faculty Association, representing over 20,000 tenure-track and contingent faculty at 23 California State University campuses, will stage one-day strikes at CSU, East Bay and CSU, Dominguez Hills on November 17 in protest over the CSU Chancellor's refusal to bargain in good faith over core issues crucial to maintaining the quality of education offered. United Academics AAUP/AFT of the University of Vermont strongly supports this action.

We understand that this strike is about issues affecting all in institutions of higher education throughout the country and we are proud to offer our support to our California colleagues.

--Executive Council of United Academics, University of Vermont.

15 November 2011