Working Together for Faculty

CFA negotiates with the CSU administration for the contract that covers our work. We also promote academic freedom and Anti-Racism and Social Justice efforts, uphold faculty rights, defend financial protections for faculty, and promote faculty participation in CFA and CSU governance.

Standing up for our Students

As CSU faculty, we prepare future generations for careers in an array of fields, from education to engineering. CFA advocates for students and for policies and practices that improve affordability, access, and quality. Student learning conditions are faculty working conditions.

Improving our University

As a union, CFA advocates for fairness on behalf of all faculty earning our living as educators. We invite you to stand with us to protect and improve one of the greatest university systems in the world. Join with us today! It takes just a minute to join: calfac.org/join-cfa.

TOGETHER, WE ARE STRONGER

DEAR COLLEAGUE,

On behalf of the more than 29,000 faculty members represented by the California Faculty Association, it is my pleasure to welcome you to the California State University.

So much about this academic year is going to be new and different due to the COVID-19 pandemic. CFA leaders have been and continue to work diligently to protect faculty health, safety, and rights guaranteed under the Collective Bargaining Agreement. With CFA, faculty has a powerful voice to shape working conditions.

During the COVID-19 crisis, we fought for and won more paid leave for faculty to handle coronavirus-related issues. We made sure no faculty will be required to return to their campus unless they feel it's safe to do so.

We also negotiated an extension to our Collective Bargaining Agreement that protects healthcare and retirement benefits. CFA extended a program that acknowledges the extra work that faculty of color perform on behalf of students and the CSU. New tenure-track faculty will continue to have a teaching load reduction to establish their research and creative programs.

We have an extensive list of COVID-19 resources and specific examples of CFA's advocacy for Unit 3 members during this pandemic are available on our website: calfac.org/covid-19.

We are fortunate to have collective bargaining rights guaranteed to the CSU faculty by law. For over 30 years, CFA has served as the faculty's elected representative on matters related to employment with the CSU administration. Bargaining Unit 3 includes tenured and tenure-track faculty, lecturer faculty, counselors, librarians, and coaches at the 23 CSU campuses.

Your membership in CFA helps to ensure continued advocacy on behalf of our faculty. This is the time to join CFA. Simply go to the CFA website – calfac.org/join-cfa – to complete a membership form.

TOGETHER WE ARE POWERFUL

I hope that you will join with thousands of your colleagues in the CSU and become a member of CFA.

Though much of the academic year will be virtual, there will be many opportunities for you to participate in our faculty union. We will have webinars and other virtual meetings for you to engage in a variety of topics, including those focused on faculty rights, political action and legislative efforts, and our anti-racism and social justice work, among others. As always, our success in standing up for quality education depends on the strength of our membership.

CFA's major responsibility is to bargain a contract that establishes and guarantees faculty rights and determines salaries, workload, and other conditions of employment. The faculty contract protects you, starting with your very first day of employment in the CSU; it allows you to enjoy the rights that have been won by faculty over decades of bargaining with the university's management.

OUR FACULTY CONTRACT

We are interested in helping our newest colleagues establish successful careers in the CSU. We hope you will become familiar with the faculty contract, which can be found along with other important information related to your CSU employment on CFA's website: calfac.org/contract.

Our contract is good not only for the faculty, but also for the university. The fate of the faculty is intimately entwined with the fate of the university itself. Faculty working conditions are also student learning conditions.

It takes all of us working together to enforce the contract and enjoy our hard-fought protections. We encourage you to

ADVOCACY FOR THE FACULTY, THE CSU, AND HIGHER EDUCATION

In addition to bargaining, CFA works hard to secure state funding for the CSU system, and for laws that will provide the best learning and working conditions. We are proud that each year, hundreds of faculty work with our professional legislative staff to talk one-on-one with legislators about the system's needs and the faculty's concerns.

On CSU campuses, we work to protect instructional programs and student services. CFA has developed a prominent public profile by conducting research about the CSU, and persistently developing our capacity to work on key issues in higher education.

CFA is a national leader in its anti-racism and social justice work and many other unions are now following suit. We work with the State Legislature on bills that respect and honor our diverse students and faculty, and we provide unconscious bias and anti-racism training workshops for our faculty. Many of our efforts are located on our website: calfac.org/social-justice-study-hall.

Our accomplishments result from the hard work of our faculty colleagues. CFA welcomes your participation. Join us in helping to ensure the future of your campus, the CSU, the state, and our nation.

WE ALL CONTRIBUTE

CFA member dues support essential work including bargaining the contract and protecting our rights under it.

As faculty, we need to collectively fund an organization that will be a strong and intelligent voice that presents well-informed arguments for what it takes to deliver quality education.

BECOME A CFA MEMBER

We urge you to join CFA.

As a member of CFA, you can participate in determining CFA's goals and course of action. As a member, you send an important message about the faculty's commitment to protecting our professional role in the university, to keeping the university accessible for students, and to enhancing the quality of education our students receive.

Our motivation is simple. Every new member helps to ensure that CFA truly represents faculty sentiment on the critical issues that we must influence; every CFA member helps to attain these goals.

Join today. Go to calfac.org/join-cfa.

Once again, we extend our warmest welcome to you. We are pleased to have you as a new colleague, and we are committed to supporting your work in the university.

In Union,

TIPS FOR NEW CSU FACULTY

- SALARY: Your starting salary is a matter of personal negotiation with the campus administration; it is not set by union negotiation. Once hired, faculty salary and benefits are negotiated and governed by CFA's Collective Bargaining Agreement. Our recently negotiated COVID-19-related protections and benefits exemplify what is possible when we work together as a faculty union.
- BENEFITS: All full-time faculty are entitled to health, dental, vision, and retirement benefits as defined in the contract. Part-time faculty who have been appointed for at least 0.4 time base for at least one semester, or two or more consecutive quarters, are eligible for health benefits. These units do not have to be at the same campus if you are teaching at more than one CSU. CFA negotiates to protect the benefits in our contract, and advocates with elected officials to safeguard those benefits.
- EVALUATION: Evaluation criteria and procedures shall be made available to the faculty unit employee no later than 14 days after the first day of instruction of the academic term. Be sure to contact your supervisor and/or department chair to learn the evaluation criteria and procedures for your position. Evaluations are important to your success. We have faculty advocates who can help!
- DISCIPLINE: If you believe at any point that you are being questioned or investigated for potential discipline, or if you receive a notice of any kind about potential or impending discipline, you should contact your CFA representative immediately.

CFA: THE FACULTY'S UNION

From the California Faculty Association Bylaws:

The CFA is established to strengthen the cause of higher education for the public good; to promote and maintain the standards and ideals of the profession; to provide a democratic voice for employees in higher education; to provide legislative advocacy; and to maintain collective bargaining agreements covering salaries, working conditions, and other items and conditions of employment.

The California Faculty Association shall seek:

- To obtain explicit guarantees of academic freedom, tenure, and academic due process;
- To create orderly and clear procedures for prompt consideration of problems and grievances;
- To promote and protect the professional and economic interests of CFA and all bargaining unit members;
- To promote unity among employees and thereby enhance the effectiveness of the CFA in representing these employees and;
- To promote racial and social justice and thereby challenge systems of racial oppression and social inequity.

In 1983, the California Faculty Association negotiated the first Collective Bargaining Agreement with the CSU administration on behalf of faculty in the CSU. Collective bargaining came about because an overwhelming majority — 85 percent — of the CSU faculty voted that they wanted a collective voice.

That vote was prompted by concerns about eroding salaries, growing bureaucracy in the CSU administration, and the need for a strong advocate to give voice to the faculty's commitment to, and concerns about, the accessibility and quality of public higher education.

We continue to advocate for the CSU in regard to those concerns today.

Please join, explore the benefits, and look for ways to participate in the CFA chapter on your campus. We also have a number of groups and committees members are welcome to participate in, including: the African American Caucus, Asian Pacific Islander Caucus, Coaches Committee, Council for Racial and Social Justice, Counselors Committee, Disability Caucus, Indigenous Peoples Caucus, Chicana/Latina Caucus, Council of Lecturers, Librarians Committee, LGBTQIA+ Caucus, Peace & Justice Committee, Political Action & Legislative Committee, Teacher Education Caucus, and Women's Caucus.

BENEFITS OF MEMBERSHIP

Thousands of California State University faculty have built our union — the California Faculty Association — into an advocate for fairness in our daily teaching and other work, and for the future of this great system of public higher education.

CSU faculty organized CFA in 1983 to give faculty the power to bargain a fair contract and protect our rights. Since then, through CFA, faculty have made historic gains:

- Better salaries
- Defined-benefit pensions
- Quality health insurance
- Better working conditions
- Increased state funding to provide quality education for our students

Other benefits of being a CFA member:

- Strength comes in numbers. Every CFA member means a stronger faculty voice to stand for our concerns and allows us to negotiate the best possible contract.
- Unity helps us move forward as we protect our gains, especially in salaries, access to health insurance and pensions, our rights as faculty, and our job security.
- Participation is at the core. We shape our union through involvement in our campus CFA chapters. We vote in elections for chapter leaders and delegates to Assemblies where policy is set. We vote on ratification of contracts.
- Anti-racism and social justice are central to CFA's work and values. CFA promotes racial and social justice in our union and in our university, thereby challenging systems of racial oppression and social inequity.
- Shared governance and better academic policies mean CFA members work alongside the CSU Academic Senates, and we advocate for legislation and funding essential to our CSU.
