Dear Colleagues,

So much about this academic year is going to be new and different due to the COVID-19 pandemic. CFA leaders have been and continue to work diligently to protect faculty health, safety, and rights guaranteed under the Collective Bargaining Agreement. With CFA, faculty has a powerful voice to shape working conditions.

During the COVID-19 crisis, we fought for and won more paid leave for faculty to handle coronavirus-related issues. We made sure no faculty will be required to return to their campus unless they feel it’s safe to do so. As CSU faculty rise to the challenge in transitioning instruction and student support services to online modalities, CFA continues to safeguard faculty rights, such as academic freedom and intellectual property.

As we enter the 2020-21 academic year, we will continue working on a successor agreement to our Collective Bargaining Agreement and will grow our collective strength through our membership. We also will continue to deepen our anti-racism and social justice work to better connect with our increasingly diverse student body and faculty colleagues, and to dismantle systemic racism.

Unit 3 members are doing amazing work to make the CSU one of the best university systems in the country. I am honored to have you as colleagues and so proud to be a member of CFA.

In Solidarity,
