President's Message

Dear Colleagues,

It is with deep pride and a profound sense of responsibility that I greet you as the new President of the California Faculty Association. Whether you're new to the CSU, recently tenured, part-time, full-time, lecturer, or tenure-track, coaches, librarians and counselors —your presence matters.

I joined CFA in 2001, drawn by a commitment to my students, colleagues, and the public mission of education. CFA gave me a space to live out those values. Grounded in social justice unionism, we believe our working conditions are inseparable from our students' learning conditions. Our fight for fair pay, job security, and academic freedom is also a fight for access, equity, and justice.

We organize not only around labor rights, but also the social and political issues that shape our campuses and communities—immigration, racial justice, and the fight for Ethnic Studies. These are not separate from our academic mission. They are central to it.

As a teacher educator, I work with many first-generation students of color—some, like me, learned English while navigating pressures to assimilate. For them, teaching is political and deeply personal. They deserve a profession that sees and honors their humanity. That's why I fight through CFA, and why I hope you will too.

CFA has won real gains—raises, expanded parental leave, stronger lecturer protections, and improved workloads. But our union is more than contracts. Through our Council for Racial & Social Justice and member-led campaigns, we work to dismantle systemic inequities and build inclusive power.

I build upon the legacy of the CFA unionists who opened doors so I could become the first Xicana president. I carry their legacy and the responsibility to lead with inclusion, justice, and care. Our strength is in our solidarity—across identities, ranks, and regions.

To new members: I hope you find not just a union, but a place of belonging. Whether through a conversation, a committee, or a campus action—your voice matters.

CFA is where we build, sustain, and protect the future of higher education. We win when we believe in each other, organize with courage, and act with purpose.

In community and solidarity,
